It's more than a kitchen.

It's the cake the that you made together. The one that started off as a delicious batter that you couldn't help but lick off the spoon. The cake that turned your kitchen into a sugar- and flour-covered disaster zone. The one that was so I-can't-believe-we-made-this-ourselves good that it never made it past the kitchen counter and into the dining room.

It's more than a kitchen. It's the life you live there.

We work hard to design kitchens and all the little details that make life a little easier. Fully-extendable drawers and adjustable dividers that make everything simple to find. Wall organisers that keep things off the countertop for more work space and within easy reach. Things like that really make us smile. We can even recommend for an external service provider to come to your home to measure your room, deliver your kitchen and install it for you if you need a helping hand.

So instead of thinking about your kitchen, you can think about how much you love being in your kitchen.

FAKTUM kitchen systems have a 25-year guarantee. Find out more on p. 51.

▲ Start here.
 Every room at home needs good lighting. Kitchens are no exception. And general lighting is a good start – that way you'll secure that you'll get an even light that spreads throughout the whole room. Any ceiling or pendant lamp will work – as long as they're powerful enough to light up a big area.

◀ In the spotlight.
 Spotlights mounted above cabinets direct light specifically where you need it. You'll instantly get a clear overview of the items inside and find what you need quickly. And by switching off your ceiling lamp they help bring a cosy mood-light into your kitchen.

That didn't hurt, mum! If children ruled the world, all dining tables would have soft, rounded corners. With PATRULL corner bumpers, we've done what we can to support them. Just apply the corner bumpers to whatever sharp edge you'll find – and tables and children will again be the best of friends.

◀ Protected by stainless steel.
A hob guard keeps small children and hot hobs safely separated. Just make sure it's adjustable in width and easy to turn up against the wall, and you'll be just as comfortable by the hob as ever before.

◀ Add air and save water everyday. A tap with a Pressure Compensating Aerator (PCA), reduces water waste by adding air to the water flow and limiting the water pressure. So, much less water, reduced energy bills and a big thank you from the environment.

▼ The green side of rubbish. Since waste-sorting at home has a gigantic impact on the environment, our mission is to make waste-sorting and recycling as easy as possible. With RATIONELL series, you can organise and recycle your household waste – from glass bottles and newspapers to food scraps – with a complete set of practical waste sorting bins. And they're easy to clean too.

Made to last.

Cabinets, drawers and shelves
To ensure they're really durable we put the weight of enough dinner plates to feed your child's football team on an 80cm wide shelf and keep it there for a week.

Sinks If it's one thing a sink has to put up with, it's water. Stainless steel sinks are dipped into salt water to make sure there's no corrosion. And ceramic sinks are tested so they don't crack when you pour hot pasta water into them.

Kitchen fronts Breakfast, lunch and dinner. You open your cabinets many times each day. We hang 2kg on a door and then open and close it 200,000 times to ensure it stands years and years of everyday use.

Worktops Your worktop must withstand hot plates and splashes of tomato sauce, so we drench it in water, oil and coffee and then we impact-test the top and edges to make sure they're durable.

Taps You use the tap a lot – dishing, pouring and rinsing. We test durability by turning it on and off 210,000 times. Then we switch from hot to cold another 140,000 times and make sure that there are no leaks.

Planning your kitchen

Your dream kitchen. It starts with an empty space and endless possibilities. And some careful planning, of course. By creating three distinct zones, you'll get a more natural, ergonomic workflow. It's what we call "the work triangle."

Cooking zone It's a good idea to consider both safety and ease when planning your cooking zone. When you place it near the sink, you'll avoid crossing the kitchen with hot pots and pans. And surrounding the cooking area with plenty of counter space will help keep things flowing smoothly.

- Washing zone Since the sink is often used during food prep, it makes sense to place it in between the fridge and the cooking area. It will make rinsing veggies and draining pasta that much easier. And with cabinets nearby for your dinnerware and cutlery, putting the dishes away is a little more convenient.
- Storage zone Good food storage can make all the difference in a kitchen. Keep in mind that storage includes both a place for dry goods and the refrigerator, and that it's always helpful to have a bit of counter space next to them for packing away groceries.

Common layouts

Straight-line kitchen
No triangle here. That's because the workflow is in a straight line. This layout is best for small- to medium-sized homes with a narrow kitchen.

Straight line with island
Ideal for a larger kitchen, where more than one person is doing the cooking, this layout includes an island, which is great for extra work space, storage and socialising.

L-shaped kitchen
One of the most common layouts, the L-shaped kitchen is ideal when you want to add a small dining table or a kitchen island.

U-shaped kitchen
If you have a large room, the U-shaped layout is ideal. It gives you maximum space and plenty of storage options, ensuring that everything is within easy reach.

Parallel kitchen
Geared towards food preparation, this layout gives you two good work and storage areas on opposite sides. Conveniently, it doesn't require a lot of space.

Measure your space

1. First, start by measuring from floor to ceiling, from wall to wall, and from the corners to the doors.
2. Next, measure the size of your windows and doors, and the distance of each to the floor, ceiling and corners. Don't forget to mark the amount of space that doors and windows need to open.
3. Lastly, mark the placement of all existing electrical outlets, switches, gas connections and water pipes.

Need an extra hand?
We can help plan your kitchen.

Helpful hints

1. Clean dishes, clean conscience It might sound unlikely, but a fully-filled dishwasher actually uses less water than washing and rinsing by hand. It's good for your monthly bill and the environment alike.

2. An ideal workspace The best place to prepare your meals is right between the cooking unit and the sink. This surface also gives you a bit of space for unloading hot dishes straight from the oven.

3. Easy to find, easy to reach Get more out of your kitchen storage with fully extendable drawers that you can reach from both sides.

4. Use the unexpected Using spaces that often go to waste maximizes your kitchen. Try adding plinth drawers below base cabinets and cabinets in the corners of the room.

5. Find it fast Make it easier to find exactly what you're looking for by hanging and angling spotlights above your cabinets.

6. Customised drawers No more jumbled messes. Adjustable drawer dividers can help keep those smaller odds and ends nice and neat. They're adaptable to create storage that works for your kitchen.

7. Make the most of drawers Keeping pantry items grouped in plastic boxes makes it easier to organise your drawers and take several ingredients to and from the cooking area.

The green side of rubbish ▼

Our mission is to make waste-sorting and recycling as easy as possible. With the RATIONELL series, you can organise and recycle your household waste – from glass bottles and newspapers to food scraps – with a complete set of practical waste sorting bins. And they're easy to clean too.
