▲ LINDAU GUEST BOOK & JOURNAL

The far-reaching influence of Celtic art is seen in the 8th century Lindau Gospel of Switzerland, a dense interlace of Celtic knotwork rendered in precious metals. These reproduction covers convey the opulent original in amazing detail: the feel of inlay and jewels, and raised-texture knotwork and medallions. Large journal and guest book both feature fully decorated flap with magnetic closure, sewn binding with two ribbons to mark your place, and memento pouches inside the back cover. Each has 144 acid-free unlined pages.

WELCOME TO GAELSONG

Autumn marks the completion of the year. The harvest is in, and we spend time under the scarlet and gold trees, reflecting on the gifts of nature before the cold drives us indoors.

We prepare for the days ahead, knowing the wheel of the year must pass through the dark before we once again turn to the light. Now is the time to pause and breathe, to appreciate the rhythm of the seasons. At GaelSong, we invite you to take the opportunity this season to commune with the world of the Celts.

Ancient Manuscripts

When Rome fell in the mid-fifth century and Europe descended into the Dark Ages, Irish monks preserved both writing and the Gospels through the art of illumination— intricate letters, animals and patterns added to the copied texts in displays of high seriousness and surreal humor.

The art reached its height with the renowned Book of Kells, and then spread throughout medieval Europe in hundreds of gilded manuscripts still treasured the world over.

▼ THE SPIRIT OF CELTIC ART

Monks painting the illuminations in manuscripts found the work an excellent path to meditation. Leave the contemporary world behind and find relaxation in the world of the Celts. Offers 80 sheets of Celtic-design outlines awaiting your color; ten colored pencils and a Celtic-design sharpener. 74-page book includes information on the Celtic people and their art, plus a collection of tales and legends to put you in a Celtic frame of mind. Design sheets are 8" x 8¾". Presented in an elegant gift box.

How A Pair of Socks Saved Western Civilization

100 years into the Dark Ages, in a Europe without books, Irish monks shod in the warmest wool sailed to Gaul and re-introduced classical learning to the Continent. The voyage was arduous, but the monks were comforted by their faith—and their well-made socks. Western civilization was preserved, but it was the simple warmth of wool that saved the day.

Sláinte! Here's to you!

Toasting to the good fortune and well-being of companions, to absent friends, or to the very land itself is part of Celtic hospitality. A gathering opens with toasts to the company, and will end with a final salute, pledging a continuation of fellowship. As the traditional Irish song has it: "So fill to me the parting glass; Good night and joy be with you all!"

◀ NEW! DRESS FOR DRAMA

The castle is a swarm of activity in preparation for the banquet. The princess, however, has slipped away, ready to flee with her forbidden love...Begin your own tale of drama, romance and intrigue in Renaissance-style black velveteen. Outer dress laces on the sides, sleeves can be tied onto the arms or removed. Gold and silver eternal knotwork trim draw the eye to your face. Outer dress is cotton velveteen, approximately 42" from waist. Bodice and sleeves are satin-lined. Chemise is 49" from shoulder to hem. The rogue's outfit is ready for action—leap on a horse or climb a ship's rigging in maroon vest, long black trousers, and leather head-wrap. Vest laces up front with grommets for a fit like a glove. Vest is reversible to black and can be worn alone or with a shirt. Leather bracers protect the arms and lace up to add the final robust touch. Velveteen dress is 100% cotton. Dry clean only. Chemise and men's trousers and vest are machine washable cotton. All are made in USA.

▲ ILLUMINATED NECKLET

Before the printing press, books were rare and precious possessions, beautifully bound and lavishly illuminated in a manner befitting their esteemed worth. Celtic manuscripts often featured elaborate zoomorphic knotwork, a style reflected in this intricate necklet. The figures of four birds entwine in sterling silver, a tribute to the masters of ancient art. Adjusts from 16-18" long.

- J21490 Four Birds Necklet $54

Women of Renown

The Celts honored their craftsmen and priests, but it was the Bards who wowed the crowds with epic stories of gods and heroes. As often as not, the stories were by and about women. From tales of Boudicca the warrior queen to the sagas of Grace O'Malley, strong women have been at the heart of Celtic legend.

Goddess of Creation

To the Celts, the Goddess represented not just the feminine aspect of creation, but also the creative force itself—the genesis of poetry and song, decoration and the useful arts. From Cerridwen and her cauldron of wisdom to Brigid—poet, blacksmith and midwife—Celtic lore reflects this female figure of creativity and inspiration.

◀ DANÚ

Danu the mother goddess brings the swift-running water, and overflowing abundance. She was widely revered—the Danube River and many places in Ireland bear her name. Detailed statue in an extraordinary blue-green finish shows Danu bearing an overflowing basin. Enrobed in a cape depicting the Tree of Life under the night sky, Danu is a symbol of fertility and the life force. Made with clay from the Ganges River in a resin suspension by a women's fair-trade cooperative in Calcutta. 9 1/2" tall. Gift wrap and rush delivery not available.

The Tree of Life

At the time of the Celts, ancient forests covered the northern lands, providing food, shelter and firewood—and sacred groves that inspired mystery and awe. Symbolized by the Tree of Life and the Green Man, the tree itself was a source of wisdom and hope, an enduring link between the upper and lower worlds. Today the Tree of Life remains a powerful reminder of the eternal cycle of the seasons and the irrepressible energy of life.

◀ QUOTH THE RAVEN

Upon a future midnight dreary, while you ponder weak and weary over a spreadsheet on your laptop—this raven will keep watch over your chamber or office door. Realistic raven, feathers an inky blue-black, with those deep dark eyes, is (whew!) smaller than life, but still stands 6½" high (including the branch). Hand-painted resin. D20160 Raven Statue $29

▲ NEW! VISIONS OF LIGHT & DARK

Dramatic pendant reflects the light and the dark. One side is calming black onyx, while the other is energizing, iridescent white mother-of-pearl. A stunning adornment, these stones are also powerful tools for scrying. Use as a focus for meditation, and let your mind see images in the stone. Trimmed in sterling silver eternal knotwork, and topped with a trinity knot. 18" chain.

OFFERINGS OF EARTH & AIR ▲

Invoke the elements of earth and air for your altar. The Moon Goddess sits with a cat and book of shadows at her feet, arms forming a space to place an offering. The base reads: "I am the soul of nature who gives life to the universe." Paten shows a design of tree and pentacle—raised on one side, incised on a flat surface on the other. Footed offering bowl features a knotwork pentacle interlaced with the phases of the moon. Ravens call to the air in a pair of mini-candleholders, their wings bearing runic inscriptions. Horned-moon candleholders invoke the mystery of the night sky.

Moon Goddess is 8" high, 7½" wide, large horned-moon candleholders are 4" high and 4" across; both are pewter-toned resin. Paten is 4½" diameter; bowl is 2½" diameter, 7⁄8" high; raven candleholders are 1⅜" high, 2½" beak to tail and hold chime candles ½" diameter. All are cast of solid pewter in the USA. All items designed by famed Pagan sculptor Paul Borda.

JACK-O-LANTERNS AND BLACK CATS ▶

The Celts called it Samhain but most of us now know it as Halloween—a time when magic can happen. The crescent moon dances through the sky while black cats prowls in a pumpkin field—did they carve those jack-o-lanterns? If the mysteries of the night give you a chill, snuggle under this cozy 50" x 60" cotton throw. Washable. Made in USA.
