PRODUCT CARE

304 STAINLESS STEEL

All stainless steel products should be washed with a suitable motorcycle wash and rinsed with plenty of water using a soft cloth.

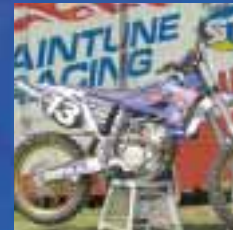

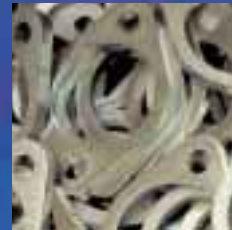

Do not use brushes or scourers, as this will only scratch the surface and increase the effort it takes to polish the product back to an as new finish.

Polishing should be done on a regular basis using Staintune Liquid Mirror Polish or an approved stainless steel polish.

All polish residue should be washed and rinsed off before use. If not removed, the polish may cause chemical discolouration under high operating temperatures.

Staintune products are constructed from premium 304 grade stainless steel. Minor scratches and marks can be machine polished out to return the product back to an as new finish. For Australian customers this can be done at the Staintune production factory at an affordable price.

For any additional information regarding Staintune product care go to www.staintune.com.au and send your questions via the contacts page.

Staintune has recently introduced Fuel Injection Control units into our product line. These units have been individually designed to complement a Staintune Exhaust System.

While a motorcycle is going through the R&D process one of the key essential elements is to produce a performance gain. If we cannot produce a substantial performance gain simply through exhaust improvement, then there is the real possibility that we will not manufacture a system for that model.

The technology behind the SFi unit is that it operates in a similar way to a carburetor. It takes the knowledge and experience that we have and converts it to a fuel injection interface.

The Staintune Fuel Injection Control Unit specifically addresses the issue of more performance for those who seek it.

These units have been developed to be easily installed, the simplicity of adjustment allows for anyone to have the ability to achieve an optimum fuel mixture setting for their motorcycle.

No laptops, no downloads, no dynamometer interfaces required. This simplicity allows you to optimize your fuel settings for maximum drive ability and performance.

MOTORCYCLE MUFFLER LABELLING IN NSW

Traffic noise is a significant environmental issue in many areas of NSW: over one in three people in Sydney are affected by traffic noise. With the increasing evidence of links between noise exposure and health, traffic noise is a serious issue. The Department of Environment and Conservation (DEC) and the police receive a large number of complaints from members of the public disturbed by traffic noise every year. Noisy motorcycles are among the most disturbing sources of traffic noise.

WHY DOES MY MOTORCYCLE'S MUFFLER NEED TO BE LABELLED?

The label or markings on your muffler show that your muffler meets the noise limits set by the Protection of the Environment (Noise Control) Regulation 2000 (the Regulation). If your motorcycle does not have the proper label or markings for the muffler, you can be fined by police or by officers from the EPA (which is now part of the Department of Environment and Conservation).

The annual RTA registration test (see Part 6 of the Regulation for the prescribed noise test) requires motorcycles to have the correct noise markings and labelling (Rule 147 of 'Rules for Inspection Stations'). Clause 19 of the Regulation complements the annual RTA inspections by requiring that a complying muffler is permanently fitted. The labelling requirement allows police and EPA officers to readily identify less effective mufflers that may cause a motorcycle to exceed the prescribed noise limits.

HOW DO I KNOW IF MY MOTORCYCLE HAS THE CORRECT LABELS OR MARKINGS?

Motorcycles manufactured on or after 1 July 1988 must comply with Australian Design Rule (ADR) 39/00. The Regulation requires ongoing compliance with ADR 39/00. Motorcycles with the original silencing system should have silencing system components that are marked with the trade name or mark of the manufacturer and the trade description given by the manufacturer. There should also be a label attached to the motorcycle in a 'readily visible position' giving information about noise levels from the exhaust.

This information label attached to the motorcycle should include:

- * the name of the manufacturer
- * a description of the muffler
- * information about the stationary noise test, including the recorded stationary sound level value and the 50% ESMP (engine speed at maximum power) value in the following format:
Tested.....dB(A) at .....r/min

The testing procedure must be carried out as described in the Regulation. DEC holds a database of ESMP levels for different motorcycles (contact Motor Vehicle Enquiries on (02) 9833 7794).

If you own a motorcycle manufactured on or after 1 July 1988 that has had a replacement muffler fitted that is different to the original muffler (an after-market muffler), then the after-market muffler itself should carry a label or markings showing the information given above, plus the model of the motorcycle for which the muffler was originally designed.

DOES CLAUSE 19 APPLY TO PRE-1988 MOTORCYCLES?

Even though the requirements of Australian Design Rule 39/00 only commenced on 1 July 1988, Clause 19 can be read to apply to motorcycles manufactured before this date. However, the EPA has generally directed enforcement at motorcycles manufactured after this date. DEC is currently considering an amendment to the Regulation so that it will only apply to motorcycles manufactured after 1 July 1988.

WHAT CAN I DO TO MAKE SURE MY AFTER-MARKET MUFFLER MEETS THE LEGAL REQUIREMENTS?

When buying a new muffler for your motorcycle make sure it is labelled or marked or ask the supplier or manufacturer to supply a label or markings. DEC is currently working with manufacturers and importers on the supply of correctly labelled or marked mufflers to retail outlets.

Staintune confirmed that they can provide appropriately labeled mufflers:

Do not fit mufflers intended for racing to your motorcycle if you will be riding it on public roads.

MY MOTORCYCLE STILL HAS THE ORIGINAL EXHAUST BUT DOES NOT HAVE THE ADR INFORMATION LABEL ATTACHED TO THE MOTORCYCLE. WHERE CAN I GET ONE?

Clause 19 of the Regulation requires that motorcycles fitted with noise control equipment supplied by the manufacturer must comply with the marking and labelling requirements of ADR 39/00. If the original exhaust on your motorcycle no longer has the required ADR information label, the manufacturer may supply a replacement. If the manufacturer is unable to supply a replacement ADR information label, they may be able to provide you with the information that was contained in the original label. You can then have a new label made and attached to your motorcycle to meet the requirements of Clause 19.

WHAT ARE THE PENALTIES?

Where a label is missing or incomplete, you can be fined $200 if you are an individual, or $400 if you are a corporation. If a motorcycle exceeds the legal noise limit of 94 dB(A) (for motorcycles manufactured after 1 March 1984), you can be fined between $150 and $500. The amount depends on the exceedance beyond 94dB(A).

A defect notice for either of the above breaches may also be issued requiring noise testing and repairs. If the motorcycle is ridden after it has been identified as defective and the defect has not been remedied, a $300 penalty notice can be issued. Riding the defected bike to the place of repair is allowed.

WHAT IF MY MOTORCYCLE IS REGISTERED OUTSIDE NSW AND I INTEND TO RIDE IT IN NSW?

All users of NSW roads have to comply with NSW legislation. Owners of motorcycles should ensure that their motorcycles carry the appropriate labels or markings required by NSW law.

HOW WILL THE INTRODUCTION OF AUSTRALIAN DESIGN RULE 83/00 AFFECT NSW REQUIREMENTS?

Australian Design Rule 83/00 applies to vehicles manufactured on or after 1 January 2005. DEC is currently considering how the implementation of this Rule will affect NSW requirements. Further information will be provided when available.

WELCOME TO THE WORLD OF UNDERSTANDABLE
FUEL INJECTION ADJUSTMENT

The SFi fuel injection module has been designed as an universal fitment application. The advantages of this design include a much lower cost to you, ease of dealer stocking the product and immediate availability when new models arrive. You can even keep your SFi for your next bike.

The SFi looks at the fuel injection map the same way the factory does and adjusts the map in the same way the factory does. Therefore, our product doesn't work well with any other aftermarket adjustments that you may have on your bike. Please remove any other system, downloads or remapping that are installed.

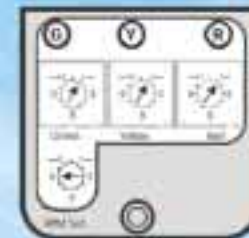

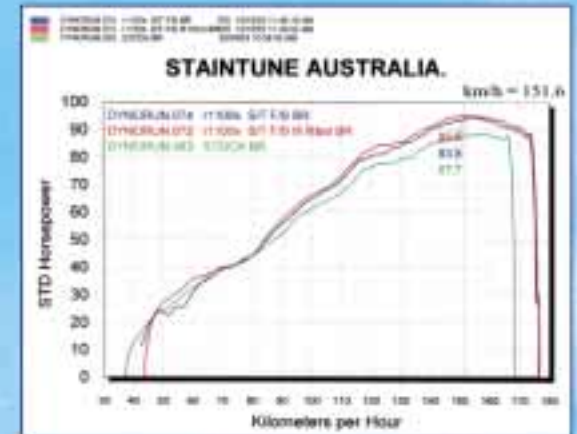

Before installing this product be sure you have a basic understanding of certain components and features of your motorcycle. If you are not aware of where the factory electronic control module (ECU) and the battery (and on certain bikes, the oxygen sensor) are located, we seriously recommend that you have your dealership install this product. We have designed this product to be very consumer friendly, with easy hook-up and adjustment, but you are still working on very sophisticated equipment that requires at least basic mechanical knowledge.

The product is supplied with both Scotch-lok T-tap connectors for the power and injector wires, and the matching blade connectors to be attached to the SFi wires once they have been cut to length. Take your time and ensure that you have made good, solid connections. Do not tug or pull on the connectors without supporting the wire with your other hand. If you are in doubt of which wire to connect to (as some wire colours are similar and confusing) visit our website or call us for clarification.

Model spec instructions come with the unit and are also available on our website or by calling us. The model specs are designed to only be a GUIDELINE for ease of installation. Wire colours and typical pot settings have been tested and approved by our technicians. REMEMBER, these are typical settings and may not be optimum for your bike. Unless otherwise noted, these settings are for stock motorcycles with slip-on exhaust only. Air intake modifications, exhaust power valve removal, baffle removal and brand to brand exhaust systems will all affect your pot settings. If you are not happy with our typical settings, then reset the pots to zero and follow our #4-basic adjustment and #5-tuning for peak performance (see model spec instructions). The SFi only adds fuel; so with all three fuel pots turned fully counter clockwise, your bike should run exactly the same as without the product installed. If this is not the case, STOP, verify that you are tapped into the correct wires by looking at the wire colours where they enter the injector. You will probably have to lift the fuel tank to do this. The unique wire colour at each injector is the trigger wire and that same colour wire will appear as it enters the factory ECU which is where we generally attach our T-tap connectors.
